Yesterday's Dreams / Tomorrow's Wishes

As students entered the doors of Howe, many knew not what the future had in store for them. They entered with a head full of wishes from yesterday and aspirations for their tomorrows. The next step was preparing themselves to meet the challenges involved.

Before Howe, they might have wished for such things as a bicycle; now they wished for such things as meeting a guy or a gal, attending the prom, having other types of fun, doing well in school, and going to college.

As they changed and matured in high school, their wishes of yesterday became their memories of yesterday. Their dreams of tomorrow will someday also be realized and become their wishes of yesterday.

Above: The seniors of Thomas Carr Howe High School look into the future as they walk down the aisle.

Below: While trying to get an education, students learn to deal with having no water for a couple of hours when a fire hydrant was hit and knocked out Howe's facilities.

Middle: Juniors Brandon Spratt and Dennis Bratt get set for a career in the military.

Top Right: Making friends with law enforcement can be quite informative; Gina Bixler discovers this when she encounters Security Guard Grooms.

Left: Mr. Frank Tout retired as Principal of Howe after forty years of dedicated service to the students of this school. Others must now take over for him to help students realize their dreams.

Bottom Middle: Catherine Gleason looks as though she is pepped up for the rally. This activity allows for the learning of leadership qualities.

Tomorrow's Dreams

Left: Cheryl St. Lawrence and Rebekah Meek work on the computers in the library, learning technical advancements necessary for careers in the twenty-first century.

Middle Left: Ms. Francis Valentine, secretary to the principal and office manager, is a splendid role model for students with similar futures in mind.

Student Life

Art

Students often create to show off their skills or to share an experience with others. The Art Department offers opportunities for students to sharpen their creative skills. There are many classes offered in the Art Department. These are Ceramics, Craft Design, Basic and Advanced Art, Commercial Art, and the department also plans to have a course in Computer Graphics in the future. No longer does the department offer Art Appreciation and Jewelry.

The department suffered a loss this year when Mrs. Pamela Denny-Rohrbach suddenly left to join the Key Magnet "Renaissance" School. In her place came a new teacher, Ms. Lisa McDonald. Ms. McDonald was a welcomed member to the department.

Students sometimes use their skills and talents from art classes to enter contests, such as the Scholastic Regionals and the "500 Festival of Arts." Howe students often bring honor to Howe in these.

The Art Department exists so that students can explore various art activities, find out what opportunities are in art, and entertain themselves for their own enjoyment.

Tracey Quarles

Top Left: These students were a part of a class that was eliminated because of a change in the faculty. The faculty member was later reinstated and the class was again created. Aaron Springer works hard on his jewelry in this class.

Business

The Business Education Department provides the skills needed for the twenty-first century. The department offers accounting, keyboarding, computer training, typing, business law, office procedures, record keeping, Marketing Education, and Cooperative Office Education. Shorthand was not offered this year because not enough students signed up for it.

Two new classes existed in the department this year. The first class was in combination with the freshman families. The first semester of this class was Introduction to Keyboarding taught by Mrs. Patricia Aman for five weeks for each of three groups. The second semester of this class taught by Mrs. Debbie Bareford was Life Skills; each of the three groups spent time in this class. The second new class to the department was the team teaching of Mrs. Bareford and Mr. Dave Stewart in Business Management/Entrepreneurship and Economics/Government.

New also in the department was the upgrading of IBM programs to 3.1 Windows in the computer classes.

Samanthia Tingler

Top Right: Jamie Bohannon and Cynthia Foley listen to what Mr. John Skene says that would be important to them in the future.

Middle: Leigha Woodson, Julie Bridges, Amy Dean, and Cherish McKinney practice business skills that are sure to assist them in later life.

Right: Paulina DeVore, Dianna Bennett, and Dale Kord take advantage of their free class time to discuss the day's gossip.

English

This year was an eventful year for the English Department. Mr. John Ervin retired and was replaced by Miss Mary Bancroft. Mr. Joe Vollmer came back to join the staff and was welcomed by all. At the beginning of the year much confusion was created by extra teachers' schedules where no teacher existed and by overcrowded classes. Students were moved in and out of classes at the beginning of the year, and some spent some unstablizing times with substitute teachers. Ms. Betsy Morse, who worked with the over-aged middle school students, was a new face in the department as well as Ms. Jada Urquhart who was hired on to teach part of a schedule.

Families for freshmen created a little havoc until social studies, math, and English teachers were able to work out the bugs in the combined program of these disciplines. English joined in more Tech Prep projects working with and combining math, science, and special education. American Studies and previously created Tech Prep classes continued to work for students.

The department created minimum standards to be reached by every student at each level of English. These standards were based on the school's "four essential skills" that all Howe students should be able to demonstrate—problem solving; gathering, processing, and managing information; integrating information and skills; and using interpersonal skills.

Each English teacher received a welcomed Macintosh computer for the classroom. The program on the computer was Claris Works. Updating the technology was difficult for some, but not an insurmountable problem. Keeping the keyboard and the mouse in the room was a greater problem with some "sticky fingers" around.

Foreign Language

Howe welcomed a few new foreign exchange students this year. In addition to the two African students, the school has students from Mexico, Spain, Brazil, Switzerland, and New Zealand.

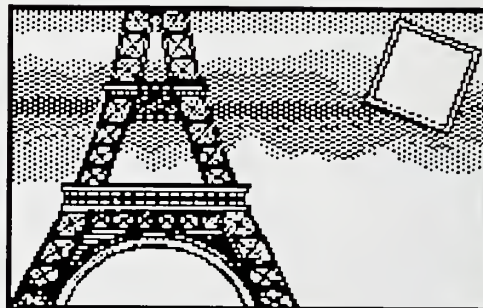

Clubs are an active part of foreign language. Dan Stanley is heading the German Club. Clubs for French and Spanish are run by Jody George.

Swiss foreign exchange student Isabelle Duc and senior Jenny Sims taught French at middle schools this year. Also Jason Chapman spent four weeks in France, a wonderful experience for any French student.

A new teacher, Dr. Bonnie Fisher, came to Howe this year to teach the second year Latin students. Howe lost its former Latin teacher, Doyne Swinford, to another school.

Heidi Wurster

Above: Annie Burford and Jennifer Urich find out that learning a new language isn't as easy as one might think.

Left: Mr. Bruce Moss always has time for his students. Ryan Olson and Tyus Bridges consult him on this day.

Counselors

With the addition of Select Schools this year, scheduling has been more of a problem than in the past for Counselors. Adding to the Select Schools' difficulties has been innovative classes with freshman families and tech prep classes combined into block units for scheduling. The constant change-over of teachers, losing teachers and/or adding teachers, as well as overcrowded classes, compounded the dilemmas of scheduling for the department.

The department added a new Director of Guidance after Mr. David Smartz served as acting Director of Guidance for a while. Mr. Arnold Nelson, former counselor at Howe, was welcomed in this top position.

Counselors worked hard this year trying to get students the classes they needed to graduate. They were, for the first time in a long time, back in the classrooms as teachers for a length of time. Counselors taught orientation to the freshman families classes.

Venita Huddleston

Above: Mrs. Sandra Petty is now qualified to do all things at one time—one would think.

Right: Mr. Carroll Rumble greets his students with a very lively smile for this time of morning.

Above: Mrs. Mattie Ballow's work piles up, as does that of all the counselors, but Mrs. Ballow still maintains a pleasant smile.

Home Economics

This year the Home Economics Department was studying food sanitation. One of the ways students studied this was by putting different foods in dishes and letting them sit over night so they would grow bacteria. They also learned about different diseases that result from the toxins found in bacteria.

The Home Economics Department has a Home Economics Club, which this year had a fund raiser, and the members also went to the Museum of Art to view the project "I Dream a World."

Industrial Technology

Industrial Technology is a course which provides students with an opportunity to practice their skills. Students taking these courses increase their knowledge in a field which may some day become a part of their lives.

This year, the community planning class was working individually on computers in a program called Sun-City through which they planned all aspects of a new city.

Also this year, drafting classes were doing lots of computer work. The graphic communication classes had new programs and new computers to do their graphics.

Industrial Technology courses have proven to be important in the curriculum for students who wish to further their knowledge in this trade.

Math

The year of 1993 was an exciting year for the Math Club. They took a trip to Niagara Falls. They left October 20 and returned October 23. The Math Department received new computers, graphing calculators, and other materials that were needed. The teachers seemed to be excited about this and new programs including Tech Prep, sophomore families, and freshman families. Hopefully, these new programs will be successful in the future.

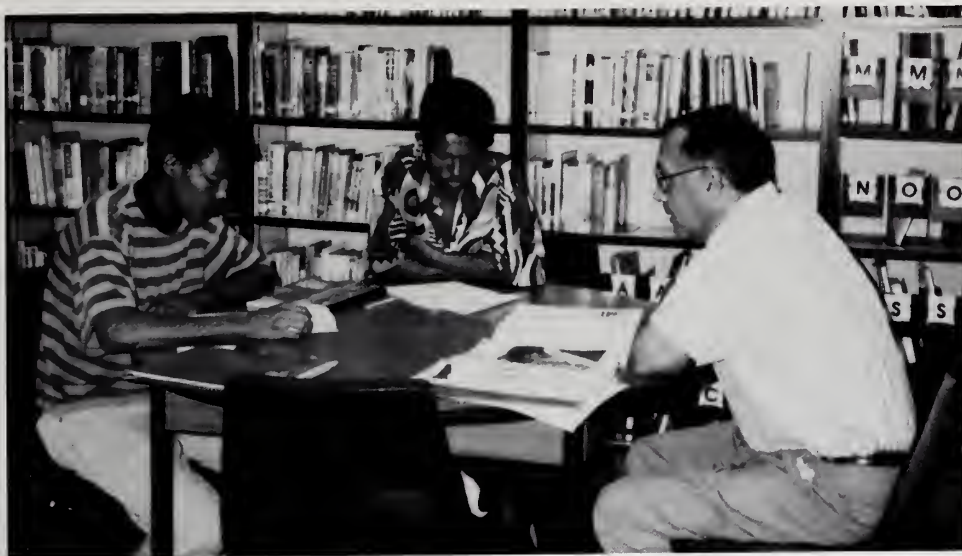

Karie Poynter

Right: These students are able to use most of the new technology in the library but choose to use books in the fiction section.

Media

The Media Center has become a panacea of modern technology. Computer encyclopedias, magazines, databases, and such were in much demand in the library.

Elmo was the latest piece of technology to be purchased by the Media Center. It copied any printed material, pictures, film, or object students needed onto a video floppy disk. The zap-shot camera, a computer, and digitizer was used with Elmo to produce pictures as well as words. The film editor was added to the Media inventory, allowing students to edit videotapes they produces for class projects.

Ten Apple Macintosh computers were available in the Center as a moveable computer lab, allowing students to learn the Macintosh in classrooms. The library was proud of its collection of children's books made available for the teaching of youngsters by high school students. The Media Club continued its tradition of serving teachers lunches to show their appreciation.

Physical Education

The Physical Education Department emphasizes fitness for life during daily routines in all classes which helps students' progress and helps each develop at his or her own rate. Fitness and skill tests are an integral part of preparing the students. The basic Physical Education classes are designed so that students experience various activities and games which develop the individual physically and socially.

Conditioning and Team Sports are selected classes for students who want to expand their athletic abilities on a fitness level. The Health classes are designed to inform students about healthy lifestyles. Information from various sources are presented and studied to help students form opinions about the lifestyles best suited for each situation. Second semester of Health again has been added to the curriculum to include a more detailed study of drug education, family health, and communicable diseases.

Nicole Quarles/Tom Renie

The Science Department formed a goal of more hands-on activities for a new start this year. New also this year was its department chairman, Mr. Bill Buckley, who took over after the retirement of Mr. Robert Edwards. Mr. Tim Jessup returned to the department and was welcomed back. Mr. Bill Smith, having always wanted a head coaching position, was given one at Tech High; Tech's gain was Howe's loss. Each classroom in the department received a new Macintosh computer, allowing its instruction to reach toward modern technology. This year also for the first time, the department united with math and English for Tech Prep and freshman families classes.

Right: Mickelle Goss, Christy Welch, Rebecca Pierce (front to back), Edith Carson, (front), and Christian Ellis in economics class decide whether or not Clinton's budget is good.

The Social Studies Department was working on getting students more involved this year. The teachers were trying to go toward less lecturing and more classroom involvement. They had gotten together and redefined some old goals to fit in with new concepts. The teachers were working on four essential skills: (1) Problem Solving (2) Gathering, Processing, and Managing Information (3) Integrating Information and Skills (4) Using Interpersonal Skills.

The loss of Mrs. Vicki Martich left the social studies classes very full and the teachers very busy. The entire membership of the department would be very happy to have Mrs. Martich back. She was, moreover, missed by the students who knew her.

Mr. Charles McGinley remarked that in the classroom there needed to be 100% more interaction.

H O M E C O M M I N G

Homecoming festivities started with Spirit Week on Monday, September 13. The first day students wore baggy pants and Disney shirts. The next day was dress up day, then sports logo day, after that class colors day, and finally brown and gold day. The Homecoming Parade started at Ellenberger Park at 6 P.M. on Thursday, September 17th, with a "Friends of Howe" pizza supper before it. At 7:30 P.M. the game started. At half time LeTina Tandy was crowned queen with Lindsay Russo, first runner up, and Annie Burford, second runner up. Howe won the game against Manual. It was the first win of the year. There was a dance after the game, and Derrick Richardson was crowned king, with Jason Hamby, first runner up, and Chris Wilson, second runner up.

This past spring, Howe's music department presented the musical, Pippin, by Stephen Schwartz. Tom Lewis was the director, assisted by Kevin Friedly and choreographer Linda Rees. Pippin is about a group of actors who come together to portray the life of King Charlemagne's son, Pippin. In this musical comedy, Pippin searches for fulfillment in his life. He searches through the "Glory" of the Crusades, through being Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, and through love.

The principal characters were Leading Player, Mike Tiernan; Pippin, Mike Deal; King Charlemagne, Josh Roof; Lewis, Sam Hobbs; Fastrada, Carrie Deeter, Berthe, Elizabeth Tull; and Catherine, Christine Dearth. The many talented chorus members, along with the principals, made this production a success.

It has been a tradition at Howe to produce an outstanding musical each spring. Howe is known for its musicals, and this success must continue. The musical would not have been a success, however, without the support of the students and staff. The cast hoped that people did "Spread a Little Sunshine" and kept the word around about Pippin. The cast members also asked for others to get on "The Right Track" and to put March 11 and 12, 1994, on their calendars because the musical was to be there in "No Time At All." It was thought no one should have wanted to miss it, for they (the members of the cast) had "Magic To Do," just for each one!

JROTC

The students of the JROTC group had a larger enrollment this year. The Howe troupe seemed more disciplined this year also. Because of larger enrollment, this meant the inspections were larger. For inspections, JROTC students had to learn the three general orders. They also had to wear their uniforms to school each Thursday for these inspections.

JROTC students did a lot of marching this year. The Veterans' Day Parade in November was a big day for Howe's military marching. The Color Guard of this class represented Howe at all games, school parades, and assemblies. The primary goal of the JROTC class was to motivate students to be better Americans.

Most of the staff this year had never worked on the newspaper before; most had not even taken journalism. But like troupers, they dug in and did the job, learning as they went along.

This year's paper had two staffs; each staff put out a paper every other week. The amount of work done was exceptional. Papers were out even on the weeks with half days and holidays in them. This staff put out in total number more than any in the last several years.

Kari Childers and Lindsay Russo were editors for one staff; Brandy Freeman, for another. The editors and page editors were diligent and hard working. Some made the layouts for the pages on the computer and others learned how.

The TOWER was completely computer generated; after print-ready copies were made, production classes in Industrial Technology made copies for the student body. The computer broke down only once; the printer, only once; and the scanner, only once. The floppy disks were damaged more than once. The staff had a difficult time trying to connect the new zap camera pictures to the computer.

The '92-'93 Track Team looked a little shabby in the beginning, but eventually turned into a top City contender. With returning seniors Dave Mathis and Damon Bryant and Junior Damon Turner the Hornet Track Team put up a good fight against all competitors. Placing third at both IPSAC and City, the Hornets did exceptionally well for an inexperienced team. Next year, look out for returning Junior Corey Vaughn and Sophomore Johnny Ray.

Baseball

The 1993 Baseball Team was a team to make Howe proud. The team was young and inexperienced but came in second in the Indianapolis Public Schools Athletic Competition games. The team, in spite of a pre-season loss, kept a positive attitude at all times and ended the season with a 9-13 record.

The captains for the team were all returning seniors — Eric Mahin, Randy Lyons, and Branden Raymer. The coaches, Physical Education Department Chairman and Head Coach Thomas Renie and math teacher and Assistant Coach Mike Hepler, had high hopes for the team. Renie stated that the team wanted a chance to prove itself.

Boys Golf

The 1993 Golf Team had a good year with a record 6-7 win/loss. The most valuable player title was given to Mike Tiernan. This very determined team's score improved to the point that they were the best we've had in three years.

Howe's Girls Tennis Team had a very good start this year. This is the first year for all of them, and it's a freshman group, that is, all but one. Consequently, there is great potential for this group.

Under the direction of Head Coach Terry Mahler, Assistant Coach Jennifer McNally, and Student Assistant Brad Lawmaster the team improved rapidly. It seems this team will go far next year.

More than anything the team is fun. The team members are hard workers, and they care about their game.

Front Row: Zachary Meek, Coleman Anderson, Michael Hobson, Desional Irby, Damon Thompkins, Damon Turner, Ronald McGraw, Reggie Short.

The Football Team did not bat 1000, but its record was not embarrassing. They won as many as they lost, 4-4 record. Most important, the team won the games that meant a lot to them, the Homecoming Game and the game with Tech High School.

Coach Harpold was happy for the new classification Howe received because of its low male enrollment. Howe was no longer classified as 5A but as 4A. This year's Captains Derrick Richardson and Josh Wakelam should not have been totally unhappy with their team's performance for the year. A loss at Sectionals did not please the team, but should not have taken away from the enjoyment they gave the fans throughout the year. The team can, however, be proud of winning third in IPSAC and sixth in City.

Honors on the team were given to Scott Wessel, Mental Attitude; Derrick Richardson, MVP; Scott Wessel and David Davis, Outstanding Offensive and Defensive Linesmen; Mike Mundy, Wayne Brown and Derrick Horrall, Desional Irby, Outstanding Junior, Sophomores, and Freshman; Josh Wakelam, Steve Harton Award; and Pat Page, Freshman Mental Attitude.

Howe's girls volleyball teams had an excellent season this year. The varsity finished with a third place win in IPSAC. Skill levels improved throughout the year, and overall attitude also greatly improved towards the end of the season. One of the new techniques the team had been using was a rotation defense with specialized played position on the court.

New Head Coach Brian Hawkins, an 87 graduate from Howe, replaced Ms. Pamela Rohrbach when she transferred to a different school. Hawkins led the team into a better season. Varsity captains were two seniors: Crystal Whitehead and Heather Tolin.

The team is really looking forward to next season. They hope to get some good incoming freshman and have a much better year.

Soccer

Soccer: During the summer veteran players banded together and diligently practiced at a local park. After the official start of fall sports, the team had only seven players and was facing a disappointing season. However, due to a few devout players, the Howe Soccer team soon saw its numbers soar to seventeen. This has been the largest team in the past six years. Unfortunately, the soccer team had many problems with player's attitudes. This caused unnecessary delay in the coaching efforts of Mr. Moore and Paul Pritchard. All things considered, the '93 season did have a positive outcome, and next year will undoubtedly see a big improvement!

The Boys Tennis Team this year was so small there was no captain. All members were co-captains. Everyone improved and put a lot of effort into his practice and game. Brandon Spratt, in fact, won his first match for Howe and was proud of it. Tony Gray was the only person able to play at IPSAC this year. The coach, Jamie McFarland a professional instructor and player, was exceptionally good. He worked with individuals a great deal, even using his own time. The coach did not emphasize constant wins but expected each to do the best he could.

Girls Swimming

The Girls Swimming Team got off to a rough start because they were unable to practice at Tech's pool at first because of a problem there. One of the major problems of the team was its size; it was so small Howe often lost points because of having no one to enter in particular events. The team needed a diving coach but managed with Jennifer McNally trying to serve swimmers and divers. One of the highlights for the girls was when they received new uniforms this year.

Laura McBurnie won the 200 and 500 at IPSAC for the team. A first in IPSAC and a third in City was awarded to Amanda Young in Diving. As a team Howe was first in City for the 400 style relay. Laura McBurnie and Heather Tolin, captains should be proud of their team.

Determination, hard work, perseverance, and proper coaching marked 1993-94's Cross Country Team. This season's team had a very good year even though they did not place as well as they wanted. The teams were much smaller than the coaches would have liked, but what they did have pleased them.

If anyone has ever attended a Howe game, he might have noticed some girls down the sidelines with the players and wondered who they were. These ladies are called the Golden Gals. At the games, they pass out programs, run water, keep stats and score, and clean the stadium after the games.

The Golden Gals leader Dallene Harpold, the coach's wife, keeps the girls very busy making posters and banners to hang around the school to boost school spirit.

This year captains were Juniors Nicole Duncan and Mickelle Goss. The team would send a great thanks to the sponsors and the football players for a great season.

The Lady Hornets Basketball Team had a very competitive year. Coach Charles Page has put in a lot of time and effort into the team. Although the record wasn't quite good, the team worked very hard and improved greatly.

The team was led by Seniors Danyale Buckner, Heather Hopkins, Heather Tolin, and Crystal Whitehead which boosted the team into a win in the City Tournament. Keep your eyes open to see next year's team take it all the way to the top.

Mat Maids

Two four-year senior wrestlers, Om Desai and Charles Anderson, represented Howe this year. Om Desai was the only one of the two able to go to the Sectionals because Charles had broken his arm. Concerning the wrestler's season, Om who won the Carmel Invitational two years in a row stated, "The year was not as we planned, but it was okay."

Juniors Grant McDonald, Antonio Moore, and Scott Wessel found a niche in the Sectionals and are promising contenders for next year. Scott Wessel won the Sectional and went on to the Regionals.

Wrestlers were constantly encouraged and assisted by the ladies of the Mat Maids. Their assistance was quite valuable to the team. Ms. Jan Ockoman and Ms. Mary Koopman were the girls' new sponsors this year.

This year the Cheerleading squad gained a new sponsor, Ms. Lisa McDonald, who was a tremendous help to its performance at games and especially at Homecoming. As the season began off to a good start, they lost the captain, Tamika Schmidt. Then the new captain was appointed; attitudes got a little hard to handle, but as a team they worked out their differences.

This year's captains of the squads were Varsity, Heather Hopkins; Junior Varsity, Jennifer Urich; and Freshman, Marie Pratt.

Outside of cheering, the Cheerleaders enjoyed spending social time together which included many fund raisers over the summer and going out to dinner.

The Cheerleaders would like to give a special thanks to Mrs. Sommers for being there for all of them.

The captains for the cheerleading squads were Trisha Doyle for the Freshman, Monique Lange for the Junior Varsity, and Misty Dinn for the Varsity. The cheerleaders had a good year!

Monique Lange

High Steppers this year consisted of thirty-six girls. Ms. Lisa McDonald, the new sponsor for the girls, enjoyed working with the group. Because Ms. McDonald felt the girls should work together, the group had no captains. The activities of the High Steppers included dancing at home basketball games and marching with the band in parades.

Hilltopper

This year's yearbook staff members had difficulties finding out what was happening through the year with activities, sports, groups, and students at Howe. One thing that made the work so much more difficult was that only one or two members of the staff had ever worked on the book before.

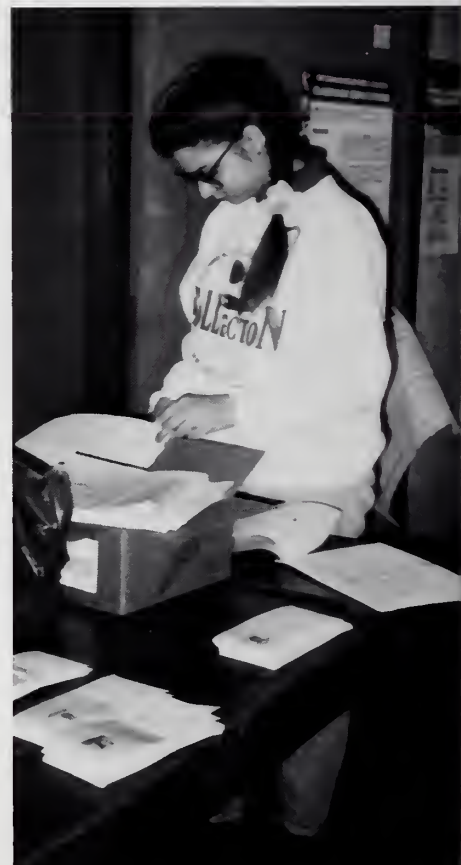

Some of the tasks of the staff were writing captions and copy, typing copy, making layouts, and cropping pictures as well as taking pictures and being in charge of those taken by Prestige. This year's HILLTOPPER contains its first completely computerized layout and copy. Assisting with accomplishing the tasks for the yearbook, Natalie Mertz and Brandy Freeman served as this year's editors.

In spite of all the obstacles, the staff succeeded in finishing the book and making it ready for Howe students.

Closing: Yesterday's Wishes/Tomorrow's Dreams

Above: One of Ms. Madora Walker's important jobs as new principal to Howe was to plan strategies not to let the school get closed down. Here, she discusses these with Mr. Ron Finkbner.

Below: Mrs. Mary DeWitz smiles happily over her surprise birthday cake. How many more at Howe?

Starting off as a freshman isn't easy, accidentally dropping your tray,
 being shoved into lockers,
 and most of all,
 being made fun of by upper classmen.
 Then, finally, you're a sophomore,
 just a step above freshman,
 but not as high as a junior.
 As your sophomore year passes, before you know it, you're a junior — junior year, finally considered an upper classman.
 As time passes on, it's almost the end of the year.
 Finally, at last,
 you're a SENIOR!! — finally at the top.
 As you remember the last football game,
 your last final exam,
 prom night, such a wonderful night,
 never to be forgotten —
 As you remember all four years,
 it is time to say good-bye.
 As graduation approaches,
 your laughs through the years,
 turn to tears.
 When you get your diploma, you say good-bye to your beloved school of brown and gold.
 You now look forward and wait to see tomorrow.

Kari Childers

Left: Lindsay Russo works over a speech to be given to the School Board to try and save Howe from closing. Many others also put forth much effort for this cause. In the final hour, Howe was to be kept open next year.
